Introduction

The Community Planning branch (branch) is committed to building capacity for land use planning in Saskatchewan. To help achieve this, the branch offers education and training for municipalities and other stakeholders involved in planning. Offerings include several in-person workshops/presentations, and a variety of webinars and information sheets on saskatchewan.ca to assist municipalities and the public with understanding land use planning in Saskatchewan.

The branch regularly prepares new material and presentations to promote planning. Information on new workshops, educational materials, and upcoming branch and ministry events can be found by reading monthly Municipalities Today articles found on saskatchewan.ca here.

The branch welcomes any suggestions for future training and educational materials. The branch is also happy to provide in-person workshops/presentations if minimum attendance figures can be met (typically at least 25 people). Interested parties are encouraged to contact the Regional Planning and Provincial Interest Unit to schedule a workshop.
